

Environment

This environmental policy statement applies to all of EPZ excluding the Conventional Operations sector. The Conventional Operations sector has its own environmental policy and environmental management system.

- EPZ produces electricity using nuclear power with a competitive cost price level and acts in a corporate socially responsible manner;
- Continuously improving safety, availability and reliability of the nuclear power plant has the highest priority. The protection of the environment, preventing environmental contamination as much as possible and meeting legislation and regulations are important principles within this context;
- This environmental policy has a high priority and is aimed at with the same efforts as other business objectives;
- A differentiated package of nuclear fuels is used to deal with world raw material stocks with due diligence. EPZ makes the systems required for this available;
- Based on its corporate social responsibility, EPZ will produce electricity in the most environmentally friendly manner possible by:
 - Keeping the emissions of chemicals, radioactive substances and radiation levels as low as possible and well below the permit requirements by applying the best available technologies, on condition that these further optimisations are cost effective.
 - Reducing the environmental load by producing as little waste as possible.
 - Aiming at a conversion performance that is the highest possible with regard to the nuclear power plant and the lowest possible energy and water consumption.
 - Provide open and transparent accountability to customers, employees and the surrounding area.

To implement this environmental policy effectively, work is performed in accordance with an integral management system that complies with international standards and focuses on the continuous improvement of environmental performance.

- EPZ communicates about the environmental performance with external stakeholders through the environmental annual report, the EPZ Annual Report and the website;
- EPZ is fully aware that specific goals must be achieved in cooperation with other parties and is convinced that improvements are possible when acting in agreement.

Carlo Wolters, Managing Director

The board, EPZ staff and those working for contractors and subcontractors are responsible for implementing the environmental policy and are expected to cooperate with it, assist one another, hold one another accountable when necessary and help to prevent and resolve circumstances that may hinder or disrupt compliance with this policy.
